Factoids for the week of March 7 - 11, 2016

Monday, March 7, 2016

A new research report from Jefferies noted that U.S. consumers will save an estimated $65 billion to $80 billion in 2016 due to lower gasoline prices, according to 24/7 Wall St. The report indicated that consumers are saving less and spending slightly more than they were a year ago. Consumers are spending more at restaurants, on entertainment and at retail stores. As of this morning, the average price of a gallon of gasoline in the U.S. stood at $1.81, down from $2.46 per gallon a year ago, according to AAA.

Tuesday, March 8, 2016

The National Association of Homebuilders reported that U.S. housing starts increased by 11% in 2015, following an 8% gain in 2014, according to MarketWatch. It expects housing starts to rise 10% in 2016 and another 18% in 2017. Low mortgage rates and relatively strong job growth are helping to drive demand. At the start of this week, the average rate for a 30-year fixed-rate loan was 3.69%. Homebuilding stocks peaked in 2005. As of 3/7/16, the S&P Homebuilding Select Industry Index stood 41.4% below its all-time high set on 7/20/05, according to Bloomberg.

Wednesday, March 9, 2016

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) announced that U.S. commercial banks reported aggregate net income of $40.8 billion in Q4'15, up 11.8% from the $36.5 billion posted in Q4'14, according to its own release. Of the 6,182 insured institutions that reported, 56.6% posted year-over-year growth in quarterly earnings. Community bank earnings rose 4% (y-o-y) to $5.1 billion. The number of institutions on the FDIC's list of "problem banks" stood at 183 in Q4'15, down from 203 in Q3'15. The post-crisis high for the list was 888 in Q1'11.

Thursday, March 10, 2016

Moody's reported that its global speculative-grade default rate stood at 3.7% in February, up from 2.1% a year ago, according to its own release. It sees the rate increasing to 4.7% by February 2017. Moody's puts the historical average default rate at 4.2% since 1983. The U.S. speculative-grade default rate stood at 3.6% in February, up from 1.9% a year ago. Moody's cites elevated default rates in Metals and Mining (14.0%) and Oil and Gas (9.1%) for the expected bump in defaults over the next 12 months. The default rate on senior loans stood at 1.70% in February, according to S&P Capital IQ. The historical average has been 2.80% since February 2003.

Friday, March 11, 2016

Studies have shown that people are not very good at estimating their own net worth (assets minus liabilities), according to Forbes. Jay Zagorsky, a researcher at Ohio State University, found that for every $1 of wealth held, a typical person believes they hold just 62 cents. Zagorsky believes that individuals need to be aware of their net worth in order to make better spending and investment decisions.
